know their hearts more fully, and l assure you, my dear brother, that there is no place of which I have any knowledge where pastors are esteemed more highly in love for their work's sake than in the town of Newberry. To confirm that remark I say to you it is almost an invariable rule, it is a general rule, that the pastor is long continued Prosperity, was in the city yesterday in this community, and I challenge comparison for the intimacy and the friendship prevailing among the pastors here. And now in the name of these pastors who love each other with pure hearts fervently, and in the name of all the congregations in this community I Lid you a cordial welcome to this

We esteem the office of pa tor very highly. We believe that it is essential to the work of the Lord Jesus Christ in any community. We believe that it is an office instituted not only in the wisdom of God, but we believe that it was one of the blood bought offices hich Jesus Christ bestowed on the nev testament church, and we believe that however perfectly organized any church may be and however well officered that church may be, we believe that meet at the home of Mrs. Robert D. it needs the pastor, in order to the conversion of sinners and in order to the education of saints. We believe that the pastor is one of the highest officers in the new testament church. We magnify our office. We believe that under God it is the most responsible office. We believe that today under God you assume the care of these souls, the care of the souls of all the members of this church. We believe, we pastors, that the Great Shepherd, of the sheep who lay down his life for them, that he has placed us here as his under shepherds, to lead these people his sheep into green pastures and by the still waters. We believe that he has placed it upon your shoulders to lead these his blood bought flock into these green pastures and beside the still waters We believe you go into their homes as no other human being can, carrying the burden on your shoulders of the responsibility for their spiritual supervision and tuition and guidance.

And now we welcome you with our hearts into companionship with the pastors of the town. You have tasted the sweetness of that companionship in your other fields of labor. As a brothor we welcome you into our churches. We feel safe in saying in this sacred place, in this day so important in your history and in the history of this church, in the name of every person present, we will soon learn to love you with a pure heart fervently.

May God bless you in your relation to this church, to all our churches, may God bless you in your work in this community.

THE MORNING SERMON.

Rev. W. L. Seabrook's first sermon as pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer was preached on Sunday morning. His text was taken from 1 Kings 5: 17,"And the king commanded, and they brought great stones costly stones, and hewed stones, to lay the foundation of the house." His theme was the duty of the congregation to build up their church, at the command of the king. He said he had prepared no formal sermon, he had message was, that as we come together we must lay the foundations upon which we must build. As I came into your beautiful church I could not help thinking it typified the beauty and the A service to extend a welcome on the grace of the lives of those who worship

Harbert, of the Methodist, Rev S T. his place. He could not do that, but he gether as we go forward we must deter-After the sermon by Mr. Seabrook mine that each one of us will do his word of commendation that was ever bestowed upon us will be, "Each one hath done what he could." Difficulties will come and discouragements, but because it is His Will, if with proper motives we obey his will, success must crown ous days and His approval may words, "well done."

But we must have harmony. For without harmony we cannot hope for success. You will not always commend my views I know, nor will you always, agree among yourselves. That is impossible. But we should be able to lay aside our preferences and prejudices if it necessary for the welfare of the whole congregation. The church can never be perfected nor the world brought into the church unless there is unity within the church.

Sometimes I fear I preach too much in one strain, but I know but one gospel, the love of Jesus Christ, and that love can only be shown by love for your fellow-mon. If I am here many, many years from today, my message will be, Love one another. That is the only gospel. They say it is an easy gospel to preach but it is hard to practice. That is true, but it is possible to practice it, and it is necessary. My prayer this morning is that he who preaches to you may practice what he preaches, that he may sympathize with you in your sorrows, that in your hours of joy you may open your hearts to him. He will be at your service at any time that you may call upon him. My heart this morning is both full and empty, full of longing that you may come into it and fill the places of those who have gone out of it and left it empty for your
